

How to fill out the Intellectual Property Rights Form

Intellectual property: is a product of creative thought that has commercial value, such as artistic works, patents and industrial processes. These rights can be bought, sold and licensed, and must be expressed in some way to protect the owner from unauthorized use or sale of the property.

A Distribution:
Within an organization: if distributing to members of organization (ie: school, church or company).
Retail: If your disc is going to be sold anywhere.
Free to Public: if your disc is going to be given away at no charge.
Other: if your selection not listed.

B Countries Where Distributed:
You must list all countries where your disc will be available. If through an online distributor it will probably be worldwide.

C IPR Owner:
Yes: if you are original artist featured on this recording.
No: if you are not original artist on recording. If no then you must also provide copy of contract authorizing reproduction use of recording.

1 CD-ROM / DVD-ROM Content:
You need to obtain licensing rights for any third party software that appears on your disc (ie: Acrobat Reader)

Enhanced CD: Contains both music and data. This requires the completion of sections 1 and 2.

2 CD / DVD Audio Content:
You need to obtain licensing rights for any third party software that appears on your disc (ie: Acrobat Reader)
Compilation: If multiple artists have recorded a song or songs for this recording, then you must provide documentation signed by the artist/ band giving you permission to reproduce the music. If previously released recordings, then permission from the current owner of the master recording is required.
